

SWEPT BY THE FLAMES!

The Flourishing City of Phillips Wiped Out of Existence.

A Number of Men, Women and Children Perish.

Last Friday forenoon Phillips was one of the most prosperous and progressive towns on the Wisconsin Central line, between Stevens Point and Ashland. That afternoon a fire started which destroyed nearly every building in the city, both public and private. Not a business place was left standing within the corporate limits, and but thirty-six small residences, one church, a Lutheran, and the Worcester town hall, a one story brick structure, with an iron roof, escaped the flames. The first fire entered the town from the woods at about two o'clock in the afternoon, destroying a portion of the town, but no sooner was this under control than two other fires followed from other directions. In the meantime the water supply had been cut off, the pumping station, which was located in the box factory, having fallen a prey to the flames. The town was supplied with an excellent volunteer fire department, with Ed. Durkee at the head, and every man of them fought with a strength only won by excitement and desperation until after the supply of water had been cut off. Even then the well and private pumps were resorted to, and the department was ably assisted by every man in the town, while the women and children also did everything possible.

FIRE NOTES.

The first car load of provisions from abroad came from Stevens Point. Other towns in the immediate neighborhood, however, had sent provisions before in smaller quantities. The car was placarded, "Stevens Point's contribution to stricken Phillips."

Gov. Peck and staff arrived at Phillips at about seven o'clock Sunday morning, having a car load of provisions, material for tents, etc., and all remained there until three o'clock in the afternoon.

The first car load of lumber brought in by an individual was consigned to Dan. Sullivan, who will build a temporary shelter at once.

Sunday morning, a little boy while going about among the ruins, had both of his feet terribly burned. No physician being present, Crosby Grant made the little sufferer as comfortable as possible.

Chas. Roser came to Phillips in the early '70's, bringing the first car of lumber to that town. He made money rapidly for years. Last Friday he was left penniless, with a wife and three children. He did not even have a pair of shoes until the supply train arrived there, but Charlie Roser, although well advanced in years, is made of the right stuff, and says he will once more commence at the bottom and strive to climb up.

Three former Stevens Pointers, Dan. Giles, Matt. Christianson and Dick Barnett, were burned out. The first named was proprietor of the Giles House, one of the best hotels on the line. Matt. was a member of the furniture firm of C. S. Webster & Co., who were partially insured. He also lost his residence, which was handsomely furnished, and entire effects, and carried a small insurance. Dick, who is the city marshal, had his home destroyed.

The Central company also lost a number of cars, and so intense was the heat that solid car wheels were melted out of all semblance to their shape, while the rails were rendered worthless.

Phillips had two bright little newspapers, the Times and Bee. Both were reduced to ashes, but, Phoenix-like, they will issue in some form this week, and as usual in due time.

Just one year before, July 27, '93, the little town of Fifield, fourteen miles north, was nearly wiped out by fire.

Supt. A. R. Horn, of this city, was at Phillips at an early hour on Saturday morning and immediately set about assisting the unfortunate, carrying hundreds of them over the Central to Prentice and other points.

He also fed many score of hungry people in his private car during the ensuing three days, while he remained there. The bridge burned just north of the city, was replaced by Monday, and several citizens had erected temporary shelter at that time.

NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES.

An Able Corps of Teachers Engaged, Including a Stevens Point Young Lady.

P. C. Kelly for Janitor.

When the Stevens Point Normal School is opened on the 17th of next month, of which date there is now no doubt, as the building is rapidly nearing completion, it will have a corps of thirteen teachers, including the president, Prof. Pray. The names of three of these have already been mentioned in these columns; today we are able to give a few more, and within a couple of weeks the entire faculty will have been definitely determined upon. This is a larger number of teachers than any other Normal in the state started with, and indicates that the regents have confidence in the success of the school here and therefore desire to put it on an equality in all respects with other institutions at the very beginning. At the meeting held at Madison, last week, an additional $4,000 was appropriated toward the equipment of the school, and by the time the building is completed and the grounds are graded and arranged, over $90,000 will have been expended. Prof. Pray was here for several days previous to Tuesday noon, and expresses confidence of having a large attendance from the commencement, with large classes in first three years work. He is constantly in receipt of correspondence from young people, many of them in distant parts of the state, making inquiries as to the school, board, rooms, etc.

A. H. Sanford, formerly of the Platteville Normal and State University, but who has more recently been taking an advanced course at Harvard, where he finished in June with the degree of A. M., has been engaged as teacher of history and constitution in our Normal. Mr. Sanford has also had experience in the conducting of institutes, and is no stranger to those in this state interested in education.

Miss Caroline Crawford has been selected as teacher of physical training. Miss Crawford is of the Hemenway Gymnasium, Harvard University, and has a reputation second to none in her chosen specialty. She will instruct the children in the model or preparatory branches, as well as the Normal students. Physical training, which is becoming more and more popular as time advances, will be made a feature in the Stevens Point Normal.

The teacher of drawing will be Miss M. E. Tanner, formerly of the Duluth public schools, but more recently a student in the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., where she reviewed the Normal art course. Drawing will be introduced into all grades of the model school, and is also very popular.

Miss Frank Quinn, of this city, will have charge of the intermediate department. Miss Quinn has taught in our public schools for a number of years, and has always been recognized as one of our brightest and best teachers. Last year she was assistant in the 7th grade, High School, but was recently tendered the position of principal of the 8th grade. Her many friends here will be pleased to see her thus recognized.

Miss E. J. Haney, a graduate of the Normal at Brockport, N. Y., and more recently teacher in the Normal at Emporia, Kas., and the Normal at Plymouth, N. H., will have charge of practice teaching.

P. C. Kelly, a well-known Stevens Pointer, has been engaged as engineer and janitor, with a salary of $50.00 per month. He will reside in the school building, where apartments will be fitted up for himself and family, and has rent and heating free. Mr. Kelly will prove a good man for the position.

Those who are in a position to board one or more teachers or pupils, will kindly inform B. B. Park, either verbally or by mail, at the earliest possible time. There are many young ladies and men who will want to be provided for, and it is essential that the information above desired should be forthcoming at once.

Reward Offered.

Lost, on Main street, Tuesday morning, a pocket book containing a note for $45.00 and a railroad pass. The finder will be rewarded by returning to R. H. Butterfield & Co. or this office.

M. A. ROUSSEAU DEAD.

Passes Away Very Suddenly Last Monday Morning.

When the news spread about the city last Monday morning that M. A. Rousseau was dead, few were prepared to receive it, although all were aware that he had been in failing health for the past two years. While cutting wood at his home in the spring of 1892, one of his limbs, below the knee, was injured by being struck with a stick. Little attention was paid to this at first by Mr. Rousseau, and the result was that it soon began to trouble him greatly, confining him to the house at times and compelling the use of crutches for nearly a year. He was a strong, powerful man, one who never knew from his own experience what it was to submit to the inevitable, and this sickness came very hard upon him. He suffered greatly at times from what was at first only a slight flesh wound, but was ever cheerful and would greet his friends and acquaintances in that hearty, sincere manner for which he was always noted. While looking upon the bright side, and with the same encouraging answer at all times, "I am doing pretty well, I guess, and will soon be all right again," it was noticed by Mr. Rousseau's most intimate friends that he was gradually failing, even after he had recovered the full use of his lower limbs, and in September last he was compelled to retire from the office of county treasurer, which he then held, appointing a deputy to look after the duties. The direct cause of his death was dropsy, but he was able to be out nearly every day, riding down town with his son Orville, on Saturday evening, when he remarked that this would be the last time that he would visit the business part of the city. He had failed very rapidly during the previous week. On Sunday he was much worse, but spent some time sitting outside. His son sat by his bedside that night, after the other members of the family present, Mrs. Rousseau and Mrs. Leary, had retired, and says the end came so suddenly that he could hardly realize it—there being not the slightest struggle, as though he had passed into a peaceful sleep. The deceased gentleman was known to nearly every resident in the county, and none could know him but to respect his many virtues and recognize his irreproachable character. Honest, faithful and efficient, he had been repeatedly elected to office in this county, at times without opposition, and beaten but once, and then only by a combination of circumstances. As sheriff he was a firstclass, fearless official, and in discharging the duties of county treasurer his work was always well done. In politics he was a Democrat, but to those who could not agree with him, he accorded the same privilege that he wished for himself. He was a faithful member of St. Stephen's Catholic church, and for some time served as its treasurer. A good man has gone to his eternal home, and while the loss is great, his memory will be kept green in many hearts during future years. He was a noble citizen, kind, considerate husband and father, and a friend as true as steel.

Michael A. Rousseau was born on the Island of Mackinaw, Mich., Feb. 22, 1822, and was therefore past 72 years of age. The earlier years of his life were spent as sailor on the great lakes, this calling being followed until 25 years old. In 1835 he left his native state and came to Green Bay, where he made his headquarters until 1846. Fond du Lac, Neenah and Grand Rapids were the next places in which he made his home, and '48 in Mr. Rousseau moved to Plover, living there six years, when he engaged in farming in the town of Stockton. He was married in Stockton, Aug. 31st, 1854, to Sophia K. Hall, who survives her husband. Mr. Rousseau held his first official position during 1852 and '53, filling the office of under sheriff these two years. In the fall of 1860 he was elected sheriff of this county, his duties commencing the following January and continuing until 1863. From '64 to '69 he spent most of his time in the neighborhood of Wausau, engaged in lumbering, and the latter part of '69 Mr. Rousseau and Dan. Stevens bought the E. D. Brown saw mill, located on the west bank of the Plover river, two miles east of this city. They operated the mill until October, 1878, when the business was discontinued. During the sawing season of 1879, Mr. Rousseau run what is now the Wallace & Karner mill, on the West Side. With the exception of two years since '79 Mr. Rousseau served Portage county faithfully and well in an official capacity, until he resigned the position of county treasurer last fall. In 1880, 1881, 1884 and 1885 he held the office of Sheriff; was under sheriff in 1882 and 1883, and from 1888 up to a few months ago acted as county treasurer. Owing to failing health, John Eeen was appointed deputy treasurer early last fall, Mr. Eeen continuing in that capacity until the County Board met in November, when Mr. Rousseau resigned the office and C. E. Webster was appointed to fill vacancy.

Eleven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Rousseau, five of whom are still living, as follows: Mrs. J. E. Leary, Louis A. and Orville M., of Merrill; Albert M., of La Crosse, and George Franklin, of West Superior. The deceased gentleman also, leaves one brother, Alex. Rousseau, of Bay Settlement, Brown county, and three sisters, Mother Superior Christine Rousseau, Mrs. Mary La Frambois and Mrs. Matilda La Fau, all residents of Bay Settlement.

The funeral took place this morning from St. Stephen's church, Rev. W. J. Rice officiating, and was largely attended, the county officers being present in a body. The honorary bearers were Chas. A. Lane, John Stumpf, John Finch, Jas. Reilly, W. H. Gilchrist and Mr. Parkill. The active bearers were M. Cassidy, P. C. Kelly, V. Betlach, Jas. Cosgrove, M. Clifford and E. D. Glennon.

To Get Ten Thousand Dollars.

A dispatch from Washington, dated Monday, says that Congressman Barnes called up and secured the passage of his bill, directing the secretary of the interior to determine what services were rendered by Henry W. Lee, now an attorney of Stevens Point, to the Winnebago Indians, and whether such service was rendered at the request of the Indians and is deserving of compensation. The secretary is authorized to fix the value of this service at a sum not exceeding $1,000 above any sum which may have been paid to Lee on account. If the secretary determines that Lee is entitled to any compensation, the amount shall be deducted from the amounts to be paid to stray bands of Winnebagos in Wisconsin. Lee was retained by individual Winnebago Indians in 1873 to prevent their enforced removal from Wisconsin.

The amount mentioned above should read $10,000, instead of $1,000. A similar bill passed the Senate last year, but must pass again before it becomes a law. Mr. Lee was not only retained by individual Indians, but the whole tribe as well, to prevent their removal from the state, and for a number of years past has looked after their interests, often without compensation, in homestead contests.

Wonderfully Educated Animals.

Prof. Gentry's Equine and Canine Paradox, that will be at Stevens Point, under a tent on Strong's avenue, near the Wisconsin Central depot, Monday and Tuesday nights, Aug. 6th and 7th, is perhaps the most wonderful of its kind in the United States. The intelligence of these ponies and dogs is truly wonderful, and it is all done by kindness. Every animal answers promptly to his name, and does everything told to do except talk.

Prof. Gentry has forty-five dogs and sixteen ponies. They are all Shetland ponies save "Eureka" and "Dottie Dimple," which are East India "horses," the only two of the kind in the country. The dogs comprise every species from the Russian poodle to the Indiana cur, but they are smart. The backward somersault, the lame dogs, the clown dogs, the leaping of the troupe of greyhounds, and above all, the trick of "Omaha" and "Major" and the remarkable acting of "Colonel" are very fine. The pony drill is superb, as is also the mischief making of "The Tough" and the teterboard work of "Sourdop." The living pyramid of dogs and ponies is also a novelty much enjoyed. The admission: children 10 cents; adults 20 cents.

F. F. Russell, one of the Central's most competent engineers, is now on a visit among friends in Iowa, to be gone fifteen or twenty days. Jas. McAdam is taking Mr. Russell's run between this city and Chippewa Falls.

Geo. W. Utter, Mrs. Utter and their two boys returned from a six weeks' visit to the east, last Wednesday evening. They spent some time at St. Thomas, Ont., Detroit and other cities, where a very pleasant time was had.

E. J. Dinneen and wife, of Oakdale, Wash., and M. Dinneen, of Spokane, Wash., spent a couple of days here last week, visiting their cousin, Conductor E. J. Began. The Oakdale gentleman holds the position of postmaster in his town.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Burke returned home on Friday evening last, the latter having spent several weeks visiting at her old home at Ash Ridge, Eichland county. Mr. Burke met her at Madison, his former home, and they spent the week there very pleasantly.

Mrs. C. S. Webster and little daughters, of Phillips, are visiting her sister, Mrs. Emmons Burr, in this city. Like hundreds of others, the Webster home was destroyed in the big fire of last Friday, and Mr. Webster's furniture store also went up in smoke.

Card from Mayor Clark.

To the Citizens of Stevens Point:—Thanking you for the generous manner in which you have met the call for aid to the Phillips sufferers, I ask that you continue in the good work. Let every one respond as far as his or her means will permit. Contributions in money, wearing apparel, furniture or bedding can be left at the store of R. F. Baker, on Main street, or at my residence, corner of Water and Mill streets. A full list of additional contributions will be published.

OWEN CLARK, Mayor.

Shoe Thieves.

A stranger giving the name of John Moore, from Ashland, stole a pair of shoes from in front of Jentsch & Co.'s store, yesterday noon. He was seen, when Emil Schmitt, Louis Luec and others took up the chase. The fellow was overhauled on Plover street, and is now serving fifteen days in jail.

Another thief stole seven pairs of shoes from the store of John Warshak, on Third street, at about one o'clock this morning. He was heard by Fred Klewitz and seen by Mr. Jentsch, who called for the police, but the thief got away. Warshak estimates his loss at $30.

TO LEAD THE BATTLE.

ILLINOIS AND IOWA REPUBLICANS NAME CANDIDATES.

Select Tickets and Adopt Platform for the Struggle Next Fall—Wulf for Treasurer of the Prairie State and a Woman Nominated for University Trustee—No Senatorial Nomination.

SPRINGFIELD, July 26.—The Republican state convention was called to order by J. H. Clark, chairman of the state central committee, and 1,335 delegates answered to their names at the proper time. James R. Mann, of Chicago, was called to the chair as temporary chairman and delivered an address in which he laid the present industrial depression and unrest at the doors of the Democracy and generally gave that party a "roasting," as is the custom at Republican gatherings. T. N. Janes, of Chicago, was made temporary secretary and other preliminary business was transacted, the most important being the adoption of a resolution in favor of the state taking charge of the Lincoln monument.

Permanent Officers Chosen.

The convention took recess and during the same the organization committee selected ex-Governor Fifer for permanent chairman, J. B. Van Cleave, of Chicago, secretary, and John R. Fraser, of this city, sergeant-at-arms. The convention reassembled at 3:30 p.m. and affirmed the actions of the organization and credential committees. Ex-Governor Fifer was escorted to the chair and spoke at some length on the issues before the country and was loudly cheered during and at the conclusion of his speech. At his conclusion Charles E. Fuller at once brought to the convention's notice the important question of nominating a United States senator. The speaker favored such nomination and said: "I believe it to be the policy of the Republican party today to declare who is our choice for United States senator. I move that this convention proceed to declare its choice for a United States senator to succeed Shelly M. Culkin."

But the Convention Would Not.

Chairman Noble, of Cook county, said he believed there was a disposition in the convention to meet the question fairly and at once, and Noble continued: "I believe it is judicious for this convention to name a candidate for the United States senate." [Great applause.] He argued that such a nomination would deprive the party of many good workers and that the Republicans were not in the same condition as the Democrats were when they nominated Palmer and that nomination was no precedent for this convention. A number of speeches were made, some of the speakers expressing anger at Cook county for precipitating the question, but amid great disorder it was demonstrated that Cook county had plenty of outside help. When the vote on laying Fuller's motion on the table was announced it was carried—1,019 to 315.

Points of the Platform.

The platform was next presented and is a thoroughly Republican document on all the leading questions before the country, including protection. It declares in this connection that there is no such thing as raw material free of any practical or marketable value, and no tangible thing of value that it does not require labor to produce or utilize, and hence the importation of so-called raw material of duty is an interference with the system of protection to American labor. The industrial situation is pronounced unnatural and the result of the false economic theories of the party in power.

Plank on the Money Question.

The money plank is as follows: "We favor bimetallism and believe in the use of gold and silver as money metals upon a parity of values, with complete interconvertibility under such legislative provisions as shall make the purchasing or debt paying power of any dollar coined or issued by the United States the absolute equivalent of that of any other dollar so coined or issued." The platform declares the present governor of Illinois "the most conspicuous case of misfit in official life," with "a wonderful aptitude at doing the wrong thing at all times."

The Ticket Nominated.

Henry Wulf, of Chicago, got the nomination for state treasurer on the first ballot—Wulf, 736; Tracy, 356; Atkins, 253—and it was made unanimous. It took three ballots to settle the nomination for superintendent of public instruction, but Prof. S. M. Ingliss, of Carlinville, got it, while S. A. Butler and Alex Logan were renominated for trustees of the state university, and Mrs. J. M. Flower of Chicago, got the third place. The convention then voted to add the name of S. Singleton and E. S. Morris, both colored, on the state central committee and authorized the committee to add the names of three other members representing different nationalities, and adjourned sine die at 9:15 p.m.

REPUBLICANS OF IOWA

A State Ticket Selected—Points from the Declaration of Principles.

Des Moines, July 26.—The following ticket was nominated by the Republican state convention, which was very enthusiastic, and largely attended, both by delegates and spectators: By acclamation—Secretary of state, W. M. McFarland; auditor of state, C. G. McCarthy; judges of supreme court, C. T. Granger and H. E. Deemer. For state treasurer, John S. Herriott, of Stuart, was nominated on the third ballot and for attorney general, Milton Remond, of Iowa City, was nominated on the fourth ballot. Two ballots were required for railway commissioner, C. L. Davidson winning the fight. For clerk of the supreme court Chris Jones, of Washington county, was selected, and for reporter of the supreme court D. I. Slinger, of Carroll, defeated the present incumbent. Adjourned sine die.

A feature of the convention was the prayer of the chaplain, Rev. J. L. Weaver, of the Christian church. He began by invoking the divine blessing on the country in this hour of peril; asked that its enemy, the Democratic party, be as merciful as possible, and that the people be thankful for all the good it did, if it did anything to elicit their sympathies. He closed by appealing to the Omnipotent to "assist in expediting the Democratic party from power and to lay the hand of divine displeasure on them and restrain them forever from the exercise of governmental authority."

In his opening speech the temporary chairman, John N. Baldwin, of Council Bluffs, spoke of Tom Reed as "the leveller of American politics;" of McKinley as "every inch a king," of Benjamin Harrison as having "no superior on the face of the earth," and W. B. Allison as having a legislative experience "equal to the sum of all three whose names I have mentioned," and as the "most magnificent product of American citizenship."

The platform declares for protection so adjusted that every American resource can be developed by American labor, and reaffirms the national declaration of 1776 on money—"that every dollar, paper or coin, issued by the government shall be as good as any other dollar. We favor the largest possible use of silver as money that is consistent with the permanent maintenance of equal values of all dollars in circulation. We do not want monometalism, either of gold or of silver, and we pledge ourselves to continue to work for bimetallism, to be brought about by all fit means within the power of the government."

On labor the platform says: "The welfare of the laborer and the maintenance of the dignity of labor have been the constant care of the Republican party from its birth. Its whole history is an effort to secure to the wage worker his just share of the fruits of toil, and it now renewes its pledge to defend the workingman not only against the assaults of foreign competition, but against the attack of domestic avarice." On pensions and other subjects the platform is a standard Republican utterance.

UPHAM NAMED FOR GOVERNOR.

Wisconsin Republicans Make a Complete State Ticket.

MILWAUKEE, July 27.—The struggle over the nomination for governor in the Republican state convention came to a close on the seventh ballot—the first ballot on reassembling—and the result was the selection of Major W. H. Upham, he getting 219 votes, Haagen 93, Schofield 17, Blackstock 9, and Kidd 3. The nomination was made unanimous and Upham made a brief speech.

The ticket was completed as follows: Lieutenant governor, Emil Baensch, of Manitowoc; secretary of state, Henry Cassou, of Viroqua; treasurer, Sewell A. Peterson, of Baraboo; attorney general, W. H. Mylrea, of Marathon; superintendent of public instruction, J. O. Emery, of Dane; railroad commissioner, Dunca J. McKenzie, of Buffalo; insurance commissioner, W. A. Fricke, of Milwaukee; chairman state central committee, H. C. Thom, of Dane.

NEXT MOVE OF THE A. R. U.

Convention To Be Held to Decide on a Strike Policy.

CHICAGO, July 27.—The directors of the A. R. U. held a meeting at the Revere House with Debs in the chair and decided to call a convention in this city next Thursday, Aug. 2, to decide what to do about the strike. The delegates will represent only the territory between Chicago and the Pacific coast and the roads on which a strike has been in progress. Debs desires it known that he has absolutely nothing to do with the new labor organization, the American Labor Union.

Debs and the other leaders were enthusiastically received by a meeting of strikers at Ulich's hall. In a speech he said that Judge Woods practically ruled that labor strikes are illegal.

Debs went to his home at Terre Haute last night to visit his aged parents. He was received by his father and mother and a few friends and said that if the highest courts of the land approved Judge Woods' interpretation of the law "I would rather rot in a dungeon than live in the sun-shine of day."

At Pullman the number of men and women at work is increasing, there being 456 men at work there yesterday and a large increase of women. The only demonstration was made by the wives of the strikers, who pleaded with men going to work to stay away. They were successful in a few cases.

THE MEN WHO TARRED TARSNEY.

Six of Them Arrested and More to Follow

The Plot Unraveled.

DENVER, July 27.—Six men have been arrested for complicity in the tarring and feathering of Adjutant General Tarsney at Colorado Springs—three in this city and three at the springs—and more arrests are to follow. The prisoners here are John A. Regan, who was turnkey at the jail at Colorado Springs on the night the outrage was committed; his brother, Michael Regan, an ex-deputy sheriff of El Paso county, and "Shorty" Allen, alias Thomas Gordon, who was one of Sheriff Bowers' army of deputies in the Bull Hill warfare.

It is said Chief of Police Armstrong, of this city, has succeeded in unravelling the plot against Tarsney through the revelations made by ex-Deputy Sheriff Parker, of El Paso county. According to his story the plot was arranged in the ante-room of the jail and Under Sheriff Bob Mullins, leader of the Cripple Creek force of deputies, was the guiding spirit. J. B. Mullins, Parker says, furnished the money and Thomas Gordon, who was one of that distinguished officer's most trusted aids. Poor health compelled him to resign in March, 1885, when he returned to the study of law and was admitted to the bar the following October. He practiced his profession for several years and then moved to Massachusetts, where he was elected to the state senate in 1871 and was serving in that body when appointed chief of the state bureau of statistics of labor, an office which he filled for 15 years. In 1880 he was appointed state supervisor of the national census, and in 1885 he was commissioned by the governor of Massachusetts to investigate the public records of the towns, parishes, counties and courts of the state.

LABOR AND CAPITAL.

A GOVERNMENT BUREAU DEVOTED TO INVESTIGATING THEIR RELATIONS.

Career of Commissioner Carroll D. Wright, Who Has Devoted About Twenty Years of His Life to the Collection of Labor Statistics—His Important Duties.

The government labor bureau is nine years old, but it has conducted its investigations into the relations between the lords of industry and the sons of toil so quietly and unobtrusively that the general public was scarcely aware of its existence until the recent strikes revived interest in everything pertaining to labor questions. The bureau has been conscientiously and laboriously engaged in gathering statistics relating to American and foreign industries, and the projected investigation of the Pullman and railway strikes which will be conducted by Commissioner Carroll D. Wright, assisted by specialists appointed by the president, will be similar in scope. The commission has no powers of arbitration, but will simply report conclusions to the president.

The duties of the commissioner of labor are to acquire and diffuse among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor, and especially concerning its relation to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual and moral prosperity.

He is also especially charged at as early a date as possible, and whenever industrial changes shall Bernard Polubitski and Miss Francisca Biczkowski, well known young residents of the North Side, were married at St. Peter's church, yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. L. Zielinski performing the ceremony. Jos. Niedbalski and Frank Biczkowski acted as groomsmen, while Misses Laura Lukaszewicz and Maggie Brill were bridesmaids.

C. E. Van Hecke, secretary of the John Rice & Bro. Co., has bought the Grotto homestead, corner of Elk and Brawley streets, and will move his family there within the next couple of weeks. J. E. Leonard was the former owner and Charley bought it for the extremely low price of $850. Besides the house there are three lots in the piece, each 60x120 feet.

Mrs. Chas. Roser and three children, of Phillips, are at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jas. Rice, on Strong's avenue.

Mrs. Dan Sullivan and two children, are at the home of Louis Zimmer, on Water street, and Mrs. P. Curley and two children were here on Monday, while on their way to Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Sullivan has been very sick for a couple of days. All lost everything in the fire.

John enjoys a good law practice in the far west, as well as being interested largely in real estate. Crops are turning out poorly in the section where he lives, owing to continuous dry weather.

Several important changes in time went into effect on the Green Bay road, last Sunday. The east bound passenger trains now leave at 6:30 in the morning and 2:50 in the afternoon, instead of 7:20 and 3:00.

The morning train from the east arrives at the same time as heretofore, and the evening train five minutes later. There is no change in time of departure of the west bound forenoon train, while the evening train leaves five minutes later, at 8:15. The morning train from the west now reaches Stevens Point at 7:30 and the afternoon train at 3:50, instead of at 4:00.

R. A. Cook reports business good at the Central City Iron Works. Yesterday he closed a contract with the Joseph Dessert Lumber Co., of Mosinee, for a steel boiler and fixtures, two horizontal steam engines, to be fitted with quick motion, a heavy triple gear log jack, shafting, sprockets and Howe patent bull chains for the above company's log loading apparatus which is being erected on their railroad northwest of Mosinee.

He is also furnishing the iron work for the new 125 horse-power boiler of the North Side Lumber Co., which he expects to have in position this week.

With numerous jobs from up the line, and the usual amount of railroad work for the Central, all hands are kept busy.

DO YOU KNOW

Why you have to pay such big bills for fuel, when you cook only three times a day? One half your fuel is used to heat up a lot of cast iron, stove cement, putty and nickel ornaments, that have been put together and called a cook stove. Another part of the fuel goes up the chimney and the remainder you cook with, but in a

MAJESTIC STEEL RANGE

The heat is applied directly through a double stretched steel oven, the loss of heat reduced to the minimum and you fuel bill one half.

The unnecessary fuel that is burned in cast stoves, and the food spoiled by imperfect baking added together every two years, are equal in value to all the stoves and ranges that are used in the United States.

Housekeepers Say:

"I have a good stove yet, but will buy a Majestic Range later," and then go steadily on consuming extra fuel, imperfectly baking and only partly heating water, when they could save all of the trouble, expense and worry by throwing their "good stove" out doors and

SHOULD the House adopt a resolution offered by Representative Talbot, of South Carolina, directing the Coinage committee to report a 16 to 1 free coinage bill, and the Banking and Currency committee to report one or all of the bills proposing a change in the monetary system of the country, a financial debate that might be indefinitely extended would at once begin in the House. There are several reasons why the House is not likely to adopt this resolution at this time, but one of them would be sufficient—the desire of members to adjourn as soon as the tariff bill is disposed of, in order to take part in the Congressional campaign.

HISTORY OF A WEEK.

Monday, July 23.

A cyclone near Elk City, Ida., swept the pine timber from large tracts of land, but no loss of life is reported. The loss of property aggregates $100,000.

Mrs. Springer, wife of Warren Springer, a Chicago millionaire, is charged with attempting to bribe two jurors in a case in which her husband is interested. The wife of the juror in one case swears positively to the truth of the charge.

The next meeting of the Baptist Young People's union will be held at Baltimore.

It is stated that the Masons have expelled W. C. P. Breckinridge from the order upon the alleged production by a Mason of the correct roll of members of his lodge, on which his name does not appear.

The battle-fields of the Iowa regiments participated in the late civil conflict, which have remained in the possession of the regiments until now, will be transferred to the capitol at Des Moines on Aug. 10 with appropriate ceremonies.

The total loss by the fire at Birmingham, Ala., was on Caldwell hotel, $150,000, building occupied by Stewards, furniture, and the Perry-Mason Shoe company, $80,000; Stewards stock $16,000; Perry-Mason stock, $35,000; other buildings about $100,000. Total, $365,000. Insurance $300,000.

Tuesday, July 24.

Herman Klugman, of St. Louis, shot and killed Edward Cooksey, one of whose sons was thrashed by Klugman several days ago. Cooksey, armed with a club, leaped from a second story window and was impaled on an iron picket. He will die.

Latest estimates put the loss at from $500,000 to $600,000. Fifty-four buildings and nearly all of the stocks they contained were swept away in a roaring cyclone of flame that seemed to break out all over the business district at once and gave no time to save anything. More complete devastation can not be imagined. The only business establishments left in the town are two saloons, Babbach's dry goods store and the office of the Genoa Gazette, newspaper. The general opinion is that the fire was ignited by sparks from the south-bound Alton day express falling in hay at Ballinger's barn.

SWEEP UP BY FLAMES.

A Cyclone of Fire Devastates the City of Cheyenne, Ida.

CHEYENNE, Ida., July 25.—A great conflagration has wiped out the finest part of the business portion of this place, breaking out in Ballinger's livery stable. All of the business houses in two blocks on both sides of the street lying east of the Alton and south of the Toledo, Peoria and Western were destroyed. This is the same ground almost exactly that was burned over four years ago, and nearly all the buildings were new and contained valuable stocks. The total loss is not less than $500,000, with about one-half insured. The town was almost destitute of water and nothing could be done to check the flames. Bloomington would have come to the rescue had there been water. In Ballinger's barn six imported stallions were destroyed at a loss of $15,000.

Among the heaviest losers are: Davis & Co., dry goods; Churchill & Sons, grain; Farmers' bank; Fitzgibbon, saloon; Newgent, gent's furnishings; Wightman & Co., hardware; Travis, furniture; Sweet, photographer; Gordon & Dexter, lumber and coal; Groespeck, dry goods; Hargadine & Chambers, butchers; Haynes, Gordon & Co., grain; Swatoff, dry goods; Ritter, druggist; Shugars & Schoop, harness; Schureman & Hops, druggist; Sebastian, sewing machines; Shuler, furniture; Maddux, druggist; J. T. McKenzie, a tailor, leaped from a second story window and was impaled on an iron picket. He will die.

NO STRANGER TO WAR.

Brilliant Army Record of United States District Marshal Arnold of Chicago.

Grim visaged war is no stranger to United States District Marshal John W. Arnold of Chicago, who took such a conspicuous part in the exciting labor troubles that followed the boycott of Pullman cars. His long and brilliant army record well fitted him for leadership in such a crisis as confronts him in Chicago not long ago. He was born in Washington county, N. Y., 52 years ago and became a resident of Lockport, Ida., in 1855. At 18 years of age he was graduated from the Lockport high school, and a year later, when the civil war began, he promptly enlisted in Colonel Dickie's regiment, Fourth Illinois Cavalry. While with this command he participated in the battles of Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Shiloh and the siege of Corinth.

After a year's service, during which he had seen no end of hot fighting, he was discharged, but re-enlisted three weeks later in the Chicago Mercantile battery and was in the thick of the fight at Oxford, Miss., Sherman's first attack on Vicksburg, Haines' Bluff and Arkansas Post. The complications in which Korea, China and Japan are involved, and in which the United States has taken some part, render the position of our representative at Tokyo a delicate one. Minister Edwin Dun is well qualified to cope with the difficulties of the situation, however, by reason of a long residence in the land of the mikado and a number of years' experience in the diplomatic service. Early in the first Cleveland administration Mr. Dun was made secretary of legation in Japan and discharged the duties of the position so satisfactorily that he was retained in office by President Harrison. Soon after Cleveland's second inauguration Mr. Dun was appointed United States minister.

Mr. Dun has had a romantic career. He was reared on an Ohio farm, near London, and went with General Capron to Japan about 20 years ago on a colonizing enterprise. They introduced American machinery, and as a practical farmer Mr. Dun instructed the Japanese how to use many modern farming implements. He married a Japanese lady, the daughter of General Matsuda. She is said to have been a remarkably accomplished lady, and when she died, three years ago, it was a heavy blow to the husband.

The American minister has one child, a daughter, now in her teens. She is at school in New York and is said to be almost a typical Japanese maiden and very bright.

Minister Dun says that hitherto the bulk of the foreign business in Japan has been done by England. Our own trade is about $100,000 a year, or one-fourth that of Great Britain. Japan deals vastly more with us than we do with that country, a very potent reason why we should try to keep on good terms with the mikado and his people.

Desertions From the Navy.

The statement has been recently made that 1,200 sailors deserted from the navy last year. This is in proportion of one desertion for every seven enlisted men. The explanation is that we cannot keep men in the service without some encouragement; that the men realize there is no future for them; that they get discouraged and desert in order to enter some other vocation. It is claimed by those who have given the matter some thought that, if the men knew that a continued and honorable service would ultimately lead to some post of preferment in the navy, they would remain.

These theorists seem to take no account of the fact that desertions from merchant ships are and always have been quite as common as those from the navy. The fact is, Jack is a roving chap who is always looking for a new and more lenient master.

MATE LEROY DIVULGES A FEW SECRETS ABOUT COMING STYLES.

A Marked Display of Passmenterie and Jet on Fall Garments—Some Bewitching Bridal Dresses—Quiet Weddings and Private Funerals Are the Proper Thing.

Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association.

One but their nearest relatives to the wedd. Often the fact of the wedding is not known until the tour is over and the young couple have a reception. Some girls, however, would rather not get married at all than forego the white robe, the bridesmaids and all the other nonsense that has but too often been seen at weddings. It is generally those who can afford least that make the greatest display.

Reform has become fixed in the matter of funerals, and now the long line of carriages and indifferent or weeping friends are seen only among the humble class, the very ones on whom such an expense falls most heavily. The loads of flowers are not fashionable any longer, and when one reads a death notice now one can instantly tell the social status of the family by the request that no flowers be sent. Funerals are now often held in the evening, so as to give business men an opportunity to be present, but few outside of one's most cherished friends and relatives attend funerals.

While on this subject I will mention that the ghastly habit of putting "shrouds" on the dead has gone its way, and the dead are dressed as in life, usually in garments that have been worn until they have become part of the lost one's identity. One dear woman whom I loved tenderly recently went to her long resting place in a white lace gown, with a profusion of cream ribbons. This dress had been bought by her son, and she wore it on special occasions, when she was sure there would be no company, to please her only son. She fancied herself too old for that pretty gown, but she loved it as the gift of her dear boy and told them to bury her in it when she was dead.

There is little change in mourning garments. There cannot be much change since there are only two or three real mourning fabrics and all the difference is in the way they are made up. A house dress was made of Priestly henriette. The back of the skirt was plain, but full, and the front had a breadth of courtaud crêpe laid in plait, and this was carried up to the shoulders. Along each side was a band of heavy black lace insertion laid flat over the goods. The sleeves were full balloon shape to the elbow, and that part was covered with crêpe. The lower parts were of henriette. This gown is for a young lady and is second mourning generally, though the lace could be added to any mourning gown for the house after three months, though those who wear mourning because their hearts are sad would probably not bicker after the "flesh-pots of Egypt" quite so soon or search for something to break the severity of crêpe trimming garments.

For first or official mourning there is nothing that can equal the new eudora cloth, but not all can afford so expensive a stuff, though, when one takes into consideration its wearing qualities, and the fact that, denuded of its crêpe, it is still a superb fabric and suitable for all occasions, it is not so very costly. Next to the two materials mentioned above come crêpe cloth, serge, camel's hair and cash-cover waists and form overskirts to gowns, and cloaks will be fairly hidden under it. There is no limit to its possibilities. Jet fringe will be seen at the bottom of the skirts of coats and cloaks, and on velvet and moire polishes there will be sewed direct millions of fine, cut jet beads, wrought in rich floral designs or arabesques. This trimming is at once the richest and most durable of all the trimmings.

I have seen some laces where every scroll and leaf in the pattern is outlined with beads so small that it is a wonder how a needle was found fine enough to pass through them. These laces will be lavishly employed to trim rich black and dark silks and velvets and other handsome materials. Fine lines of jet passmenterie will be used to head flounces and work out designs on fine tailor suits and other street gowns, but these lines must be very narrow and of the finest beads. Some gowns, however, will have rows, festoons and patterns wrought by large beads. I saw an imported dress of old rose cloth, intended for a bridesmaid. There was a sprung bangle all around the skirt, reaching up to quite a high point on the left side, headed by a row of half inch jet beads. The waist was in form of a corset, with a round belt of beaded passmenterie. On the bust was a row of the same, somewhat wider, and separating the lower part from the upper, which was laid in plait. The double puffed sleeves were plain on the shoulder, but the forearm was nearly covered with the passmenterie.

This style of trimming is not confined altogether to jet beads, for a wedding dress just brought over for a bride shows the upper portion of the waist and sleeves to be almost entirely of a passmenterie, with silver heads. The rest of the gown is plain, save for the deep plait in the skirt, yet it is superbly rich on account of the novel garniture.

I know another young lady who is to be married in a few days and sail for Europe immediately after the ceremony. She will be attended by her two sisters, and the dresses for this quiet wedding are pretty enough to make interesting reading, and so I will try to describe them. The bride's gown was imported; the others were made here. The bride will wear tan colored ladies' cloth made with a slight draping on each hip, so that the folds fall forward, breaking the rigidity. On each side is a rever let into the skirt and buttoned back and edged with coarse tailor stitching. In the back it falls in heavy fluted plait. The basque waist is cut with a short but very full sprang frill and is finished down the front by a pochette arrangement—that is, ravers, collar and vest combined. It is buttoned to the waist and is made of oyster white billiard cloth. The upper sleeves are puffed and of tan, and the lower ones are of oyster white. The little touches, like the dog collar turned down over two scallops of the white, finish it to perfection. The young lady in question is extremely slender, and the arrangement of the corsage and skirt drapery give her ample proportions.

The bride's gown was imported; the others were made here. The bride will wear tan colored ladies' cloth made with a slight draping on each hip, so that the folds fall forward, breaking the rigidity. On each side is a rever let into the skirt and buttoned back and edged with coarse tailor stitching. In the back it falls in heavy fluted plait. The basque waist is cut with a short but very full sprang frill and is finished down the front by a pochette arrangement—that is, ravers, collar and vest combined. It is buttoned to the waist and is made of oyster white billiard cloth. The upper sleeves are puffed and of tan, and the lower ones are of oyster white. The little touches, like the dog collar turned down over two scallops of the white, finish it to perfection. The young lady in question is extremely slender, and the arrangement of the corsage and skirt drapery give her ample proportions.

From sorrow to joy! The latest evening and afternoon dresses are being trimmed with and even made entirely of crêpe lisse, silk mouseline and guaze materials—never before seen in day dresses. The effect is ethereal and charming and gives the wearer a nubulous and misty appearance as lovely as novel. Naturally these gowns are very fragile and must not be exposed to damp air, and woe to her who gets caught in a summer rain! But aside from any evil atmospheric effect these new gowns are visions of delight. White is the favorite, though a few are seen in tints. Indeed white has taken a place for summer dresses not anticipated at the beginning of the season. And ribbons—every thing has them on—all that the garment will possibly bear. New combinations of lace and ribbon are seen hourly on the summer girl.

I started to tell what the little bird whispered to me. She said that more is to be the favorite silk this coming season, and a new stiff brocade in glistening tinsel, called in ancient times "watchets." All the thin, soft silks now being worn will be forgotten soon. Cheney silk in all its mysterious beauty will be the favorite for evening, and velvet will make itself seen and admired everywhere. The woolen goods follow the quaint patterns of 80 years ago, but with new colorings more pleasing to the eye. Damiers in silk and wool will be made up very often. This excellent material has heretofore been made up occasionally for excursions and voyages, but has now become favorite on account of its solid qualities and durability. There will be an immense line of woolen brocades in solid color and also in two tone. Many of them will have a woven pattern for flouncing and other trimming. Mouse color, mole and squirrel are among the prettiest new shades.

dyke white Spanish lace all around the bottom, the points standing up, and a tiny bow of malice velvet ribbon set on each point. The corsage is round, with a vest of white Spanish lace over malice surah. There is a wide bertha collar of malice velvet and a draped dog collar of the same. The sleeves are gigot. The bonnet is a small beef eater of yellow leghorn, with a shaded surah bow in front, with a pale green, brown and malice showing fitfully. In the back there are three cherry red tips—two short and one upright. I should have said that the bride will wear a plain straw bonnet, with a green velvet bow and gold ornament.

These quiet weddings are considered to be in the best possible taste, and it is quite common for sensible persons to invite no

Work of the Senators and Representative at Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—In the senate Gorman defended the senate tariff bill and replied to Cleveland's letter, charging the president with bad faith in writing the letter after he had agreed to the senate bill as the best that could be had. Gorman's remarks raised a sensation and he called on West, Harris, and Jones of Arkansas to corroborate his statements. They said that in interviews with Caribile and the president these two gentlemen had agreed to the senate bill as Gorman had charged. An executive session was held.

The house was without a quorum owing to the number of members who went over to the senate. An attempt to get a quorum through the sergeant-at-arms failed, and without doing any business the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—In the senate Hill made a speech in reply to Gorman, defending the president from Gorman's attack. Caffery also spoke in a similar vein, and was speaking at adjournment.

The house passed the bill to reinstate railway mail clerks dismissed between March 15 and May 1, 1894. It was a party vote, because it was a party measure. A number of unimportant bills were passed, mostly relating to land titles and lands.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The senate agreed to the conference report on the legislative bill. Allen offered a resolution that went over calling for copies of the telegraphic correspondence relating to the strike at Chicago on file in the department of justice. Protests from Illinois against appropriating money for sectarian Indian schools were presented. Caffery continued his speech on the tariff. Some other speeches were made and an executive session was held.

The house agreed to the conference report on the legislative bill and heard the correspondence between the French government and the American embassy at Paris relative to the assassination of Carnot.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Allen's resolution calling on the department of justice for strike correspondence was adopted by the senate, and a number of bills on the calendar were considered. When the tariff bill came up Vilas made a speech defending the president and withdrew his amendment to recede from the 1/4 cent differential on sugar. Hill's motion to put iron ore and coal on the free list was defeated, only six voting in the affirmative. Washburn renewed Vilas' motion to reude from the sugar differential and a point of order was raised against it, which was pending at adjournment.

The house passed a score of bills from the interstate commerce committee, none being of importance, and adjourned. It was hard work to hold a quorum, and at 8:30 there were not fifty members present.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The senate after three tie votes, the first two on a point of order and the third on the proposition to reude from the 1/4 cent differential on sugar, sent the tariff bill to conference. The voices being tie, negated Harrar's decision that the 1/4 cent amendment was not in order and also negated the proposal to reude therefrom. Hill and the Populists voted with the Republicans. A few bills of no general importance were passed and the senate adjourned to Monday.

The house, without a quorum, transacted some routine business by unanimous consent, and held the usual night session on pensions.

Government Building at Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The senate committee on appropriations decided to report an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill making an appropriation of $20,000 for a government building and exhibit at the cotton states and international exposition to be held at Atlanta next year.

Anti-Anarchist Bill Adopted.

PARIS, July 26.—In the chamber of deputies the government's anti-anarchist bill was adopted by a vote of 268 to 163.

Forest fires are getting numerous. A base ball nine passed through here on Sunday night on their way to Milwaukee. Wausau did them up that day: score, Wausau 10, Milwaukee 9.

Ed. Hayes has moved his family to Centralia. Ed. has made this his headquarters for 18 years and he and his family are sadly missed.

Lake Emily.

Quite a number of campers here at present.

Dr. Dale and family, of Iola, came down yesterday, to spend a few weeks enjoying camp life.

The liveliest point on the lake is at "Campus Santa Portius."

A purse of $153.00 in cash was contributed by our citizens for the relief of the needy at Phillips, and forwarded to headquarters last Monday.

Miss Allie Gunderson had a runaway last Tuesday. The horse she was driving got frightened at Andrew Moberg's dog, which came rushing out onto the road. The horse was stopped before running far, and all the damage was a broken buggy. Mr. Moberg took the buggy to the shop, got it repaired and paid for the same.

The social given by the ladies of the Episcopal church, on L. H. Fowler's lawn, last Wednesday evening, was a decided success. The lawn was handsomely decorated with lamps, Chinese lanterns, etc. The Junior Order band furnished music while the rest of us filled up on ice cream, cake, watermelon and other good things too numerous to mention. The net receipts were about $15.00.

G. B. Hyde has moved from Centralia into the Patrick house here, which he lately purchased.

STATE SUIT. WELLS, in attacking Prof. Ely, of the State University, has evidently undertaken a bigger job than he at first bargained for.

The bills for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona have been favorably reported to the Senate and as there is practically no opposition to either, it is only a question of time when they will become laws.

ALTHOUGH Minister Willis was somewhat premature in fully recognizing the republic of Hawaii in advance of instructions to that effect from Secretary Gresham, there is little doubt that his action will be approved by the administration. It is not probable that any action will be taken on the formal protest of the ex-Queen against the establishment of the republic in Hawaii.

The making of the Wilson bill came near causing the death of Chairman Wilson, and if he persists, in the present condition of his health, in trying to perform labors in connection with the tariff conference that would prostrate strong healthy man, his friends fear for the consequences. He says he is in the fight to remain until the last blow is struck regardless of his own health or feelings.

CONGRESSMAN LYNCH will undoubtedly be re-nominated by the Democrats in the 9th district, although other names have been mentioned in this connection. Mr. Lynch is one of the most efficient members from this state, a hard-working, conscientious representative, and his services for the party entitle him to receive recognition above anyone that has as yet been spoken of.

D. LLOYD JONES, of this city, was a candidate before the republican convention, last week, for the nomination to the office of attorney general, but after the governorship went to this district, there was no possibility of his winning. Still Mr. Jones received 70 votes on the first ballot, being the third highest; and 57, the second highest, on the formal ballot.

It has been understood for some time that Sheriff Williams, of Waupaca, would seek the appointment of warden of the state prison, providing the Republicans were successful this fall. But it seems that he did not get into the loaded wagon, having banked on the wrong man, as the Journal says, and as to the appointment, "his name is Dennis." This must be pleasant news to the Waupaca official, coming several months before election, and from his own party, but it is no doubt absolutely reliable.

IN 1890 the Republicans seemed to have more money than at the present time. Now the Hon. E. S. Minor, Republican candidate for congress, says that he won't buy up the local Democratic leaders this year, because he hasn't got any money. In 1890 he wasn't even a candidate for office and still he had plenty of money ($600 altogether). He was using his money to get votes with that year, too, and what was worse yet, getting them for the purpose of defeating the regular Republican candidate. We wonder if Mr. Minor does not regret that he hasn't his possession now some of the "stuff" that he used so lavishly in 1890.—Democrat, Sturgeon Bay.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is but one disease that science has not been able to cure in this state and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity, Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and directly upon the blood and mucous membranes of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and restoring the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure, and for list of Testimonials.

THE STATE PLATFORM.

The platform passed by the Republicans in session at Milwaukee, last week, is recommended for one thing above all others, and that is for brevity. And while it does not seem to take kindly to the national administration, and applauds its own party principles above all else, it is noticed that not even a reference was made to the present state administration, which was undoubtedly found so far above reproach that nothing derogatory thereto could be said with any degree of truth.

The Chicago Herald compares the platforms of the Republicans of Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa, and say that with one voice they accuse the democratic party of bringing a pane upon us "with the wild fury of a tornado," of closing factories, depriving men of employment, of causing "lawlessness, bloodshed, the interruption of business"—everything bad, in short, from the panic to the A. R. U. rebellion and the drought—and all by threatening a partial deliverance of the country from commercial and industrial bondage. It is pointed out that when the panic came the country was, as it still is, under laws enacted by republican congresses. It is pointed out that not one line or word of their McKinley law has been repealed or changed. It is pointed out that less than a year ago the republicans admitted with great unanimity that the success of the democratic party in 1892 had nothing to do with the panic. It is pointed out that the most of their representatives in congress admitted that their own silver legislation was the chief cause of the catastrophe and that they joined the democrats in repealing it. It is pointed out that the crisis was passed before the first line of the Wilson bill was written. It is pointed out that the panic of 1873 occurred when the republican party was in control of every department of the government at Washington, as it had been for twelve years, and that the panic of 1893 occurred after the Republican party had controlled national legislation for thirty-two years. All this serves only to enrage the republican wolf and cause him to renew his absurdly false accusations more vociferously than ever. But he will find that he has no feeble and defenseless lamb to deal with. He will find that the people see through his pretenses, which are shallow as they are false, and will treat him as he deserves.

In another respect the republicans of three states are not harmonious. As to silver, those of Illinois and Iowa are in pretty close agreement, but a discordant note comes from Wisconsin. "We favor bimetallism" is the unequivocal part of the Illinois declaration on this subject. The remainder of the declaration means anything or nothing as you please. The essential thing is the comittee of the party in this state to bimetallism. The kind of bimetallism may be gathered from the declaration of the temporary chairman that the party "will continue to give the country a sound and honest currency based upon both gold and silver." That is, the kind of currency which precipitated the panic of last year. The Iowa declaration is: "We do not want monometallism, either of gold or silver, and we pledge ourselves to continue to work for bimetallism to be brought about by all fit means," etc. That means the same thing as the Illinois silver plank. Illinois and Iowa republicans join those of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Kansas in bidding high for the cheap-money vote. They stand ready to give the country a rotten financial system and other panic in return for the votes for those who want the government to legalize repudiation. It is only from Wisconsin that we hear a word of dissent from this vicious programme. They stand ready to give the country a rotten financial system and other panic in return for the votes for those who want the government to legalize repudiation.

Mr. Minor may have been nominated without the aid and in spite of the influence of the press, but we seriously doubt if he can be elected in the absence of its support.

In no spirit of envy does The Post dedicate this essay to "Mr. Minor's Mouth." With the earnest hope, rather, that the portrayal of his detestable and irritating weakness will, in the future, be held in abeyance by his presumption and illiteracy.

And if the beneficial results we have had the right to expect, follow, no paper in the district will be more loyal in its fealty to him as the trouvère catastrophist of ideal purity in politics.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint.

When troubled with dysentery, diarrhea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by the H. D. McCulloch Co.

MINOR'S MOUTH.

This is the way Tom Reid, of the Appleton Post, heads a column article in which he rakes E. S. Minor, the Republican candidate for congress, in the following manner:

"There are certain people fated to be fools; they not only commit follies by choice, but are even constrained to do so by fortune." This is a very old maxim, but evidences of its truthfulness are manifold. A short time since Mr. E. S. Minor tendered his supporters at Sturgeon Bay a reception. The festivities were enlivened by a band and a speech by the embryo statesman. His apostrophes, as reported, call to mind the above quotation. To say nothing of the peculiar methods to which he had recourse in his nomination by the Stevens Point convention his deportment would be that of ordinary civility towards the almost united business element of the district opposed to him. But in this we were mistaken, as the following excerpt from his hallelujah adulation of himself demonstrates:

Friends, during the fast couple of months I have been here, a large crowd of people, but this is the first time I have had the pleasure of addressing wholly my crowd. I have also heard bands of music, but this is the first time that I have heard my band. When I and my friends went into Stevens Point, a town in the first district of the state, we did not go in crowds, decorated in ribbons and bunting, nor did we march up the street one hundred strong led by brass band; but we went in quietly and unostentatiously in groups of twos and threes. A vast difference, but we were prepared for business and behold,

During the same time I was candidate for this nomination I never ascertained a ghost of an idea of failure. It never seemed to me as I journeyed over the district that anything else but success could crown my efforts. I never had a doubt of success even if my opponent did own a newspaper and was newspaper editor. In those days the papers were not so much as the papers of Milwaukee and Chicago dictate to people, for they themselves (the people) select their own candidates and as a candidate of the people I secured the nomination, despite all the newspaper influence that could be brought upon me.
